The following letter to the editor was written by a former city councilman who served on the council that granted the franchise to the Alarm Corporation in 1952 to bring coaxial cable T. V. into Carmel provided that all cables and amplifier boxes should be placed underground.

The present council has agreed that it will allow the amplifier boxes to be dug up—26 of them—and placed on the sidewalks throughout the residence district, if a trial box, the corporation is to install on the sidewalk, can be screened or decorated attractively enough to satisfy the council-planning commission landscape committee.

June 22, 1955

Editor of the Pine Cone:

From the viewpoint of any Carmelite interested in the future of the Village, the recent action of Mayor Lyon and Councilmen Smith, Chitwood and Patnude in granting a special privilege to the Alarm Corporation, a television cable concern, must be protested as precipitate and unwise.

The Alarm Corporation can now do what no citizen or business firm in Carmel can do: it can create a totally unnecessary hazard or obstruction on the public street area. The telephone, power and light wires are vitally necessary, and yet even they could go underground and the poles come down, if we would pay for the installation. The water company's meters are under the sidewalk area now. The Alarm Corporation's amplifier boxes are already underground, and their cost was underwritten from the beginning by the subscribers to the television service. Should the boxes be exhumed, what written promises of substantial permanent reduction in rates and "hook-up" charges have been

Viennese Star Is "Merry Widow" In Valley Light Opera

The Carmel Valley Light Opera Company will open its summer season in the Carmel Valley Barn Theater July 1 with Franz Lehar's heart-lifting, ever-loved, Merry Widow.

And what would be the gift from heaven that a local operetta group would dream of but not expect to get? A lovely young Viennese light opera star to sing Sonia.

They have her. Her name is Margaretha Rahneberg.

In Austria, during and after the war, musical comedy-goers applauded a slight, green-eyed Viennese girl to stardom—a girl named Gretl Rath, whose lyric soprano voice and effervescent acting caught the imagination of German and Austrian addicts of light opera. Records of her singing became popular hits, and she landed two radio shows of her own. Suddenly she dropped from the European stage as neatly as through a trick door.

A year ago a green-eyed young woman with suspiciously professional poise applied to join the newly-formed Carmel Valley Light Opera. She only wanted to sing, was willing to help the newly-formed group get started. Her name, Margaretha Rahneberg.

What happened between Gretl Rath and Margaretha Rahneberg? She laughs and says, "I just wanted to come to America, so I did."

Margaretha continues: "I had lived here (in Pacific Grove) five years and not been near the stage. I was so homesick to sing. When I saw these people and how seriously they worked, I just loved and wanted to be one of them."

Council Buys $65,000 Lots Doubles Sales Tax; Hires City Planning Consultant

Major John Gaston, Ground Observer Corps Squadron Commander at Hamilton Field, presents bar to Mrs. Margaret Heldt when she had served 2000 hours.

—AIR FORCE PHOTO

For a few minutes last night the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea was rolling in wealth, but the city council made haste to remedy the situation.

By passing an ordinance increasing the city sales tax from one half to one cent, the council added $45,000 a year to the city's revenue, surplus money that is not needed to meet operation costs.

Then the council entered into an agreement with M. J. Murphy to buy, for $65,000, on a lease purchase arrangement, 11 lots on Junipero Street between the Bettie Greene Stables and the Youth Center, the lots to be used as a corporation yard. This will bring the city equipment together in one place in the heavy industry zone. At present, some of the equipment is stored in the residence district near the Woods School on land which was given the city to be used as a park; the rest kept behind the police office at San Carlos and Seventh streets in a yard which could be converted into a parking lot.

The Murphy agreement provides for gradual acquisition of the property, lot by lot, over a period of three years, the city paying rent for the use of those not yet purchased. Expenditure starts within 15 days with $300 a month rent and $8,500 for the purchase of the first lot on which is located a building occupied by Belvail Electric. Belvail is soon to move his business to a building of his own. The street superintendent will use the vacated building for office and storage.

The council spent $5000 more of the city's new-found wealth when it signed a contract with Planning Consultant Larry Livingston to provide the city with a master plan. Livingston will make a study of traffic flow and parking needs, produce a land use plan, revise the zoning ordinance and "make recommendations concerning the appearance and character of the community." Payments are to be made as follows: $2000 now; $2000 when he produces The Plan; $1000 when he completes the ordinance.

Mrs. John Chitwood, wife of Councilman Chitwood, rose up in the audience to remark: "I know Mr. Chitwood is in favor of this and I'm fond of Mr. Chitwood, but I don't know a person in town who wants a planning consultant. I think it's a ridiculous expenditure of money."

Councilwoman Geraldine Smith said that she was inclined to agree with Will Rogers, "An expert is someone from out of town," but, "though our community is unique, our problems are not unique, and the council can use some expert advice."

Livingston is to hurry up and make the traffic flow and parking study first. The council have been putting aside little problems for Livingston all winter, and last night added these to the pile:

Unnoticed and unsung are a group of men, women and teenagers who are giving unselfishly and patriotically of their time to alert You in the event of enemy attack. Their slogan is Devotion To Others. Since the Ground Observer Corps was activated in 1953 Mrs. Margaret Heldt has served over three thousand hours in the service. I asked her: "But who is the one who coordinates the whole thing? Who is the boss of our local Ground Observer Corps?"

Kurt Writes From Formosa; Chinese Have It But Good

Special Pine Cone correspondent for the armed forces in Formosa is Kurt von Meier, who is stationed at Keeling aboard the U.S.S. Eldorado. Kurt seems to be having a hot time in the Orient with daily temperatures varying between 90 and 100 degrees and the humidity also up in those brackets.

"It's either raining from the sky to the ground", he reports, "or steam is rising from the verdant hills, from the very streets, to the sky. Keeling is on the wrong side of the tracks. The right side is a steep cliff bored with caves and air raid shelters. Everything is pretty much out in the open, including the sewage system."

"Most towns," he continues, "have statues or fountains in their plazas, but Keeling has a loud-speaker which emits, constantly, a garbling, screeching Chinese falsetto interspersed with gongs, bells and sounds from a weird assortment of Oriental instruments."

When he remarked about the

"Well," said Margaret reluctantly, "I guess I am." Her title is Post Supervisor.

I had asked Mrs. Heldt to come to see me as I wanted some information on the GOC. I have always been a bit hazy about just what they do and how important they really are in Civil Defense. And there must be many more who know but little about the scope of this volunteer work on our Peninsula.

The lady was good copy. It was gratifying to find someone who has so wide a knowledge of the whole set-up.

This group of watchers is a very important cog in the machinery of our Civil Defense and is so recommended by the Air Force Command. Mrs. Heldt is the dynamo which keeps the project functioning for this Peninsula. She devotes almost her entire time to it. Her son Fred is in the Marine Corps and is now stationed in San Diego having been lately returned from Korea. Nine-year old Sandra always has one parent with her when she is not in school. Her mother says: "After school she hangs around her daddy until I get home. I manage to feed my family, and I get my house cleaned at least once a month. I couldn't

CARMEL LEGION LOSES TWELVE-INNING THRILLER

Carmel's Junior Legion baseball team lost its first game of the current season last Saturday afternoon at Salinas as the hustling Salinas Post 31 hung a 5-4 defeat on the high-flying Post 512. The local lads forced the victors to go 12 innings before gaining the verdict which they richly deserved. All the figures favored the Post 31 nine which has improved tremendously since Carmel defeated Salinas in first round play. The winners outhit Post 512, 10 to 7, made three errors while Carmel was guilty of six, and Salinas pitcher, Mike Porter, gave up only four walks over the 12-inning route while striking out 14 Carmel batters. Post 512 pitchers, Mike Mosolf and Dick Jennings, were in hot water for the complete 12 innings, issuing 14 walks and leaving 27 runners stranded on the bases. Mosolf pitched the first ten innings and Jennings went the final two.

Pitcher Mike Porter was a big factor in the Salinas victory as he chipped in with three hits besides pitching all the way. Carmel was nursing a 4-3 lead going into the bottom of the ninth when Mosolf lost control and walked two men to lead off the inning. Pitcher Porter then strode to the plate to smash out a solid double and send the game into extra innings.

Post 31 broke the deadlock in the twelfth inning as Jennings gave free passes to the first two hitters followed by Paul Vona's rousing single which pushed over the winning run.

Hollister Junior Legion visits Carmel for a league game this Saturday. This tilt will be played at the high school field, starting at 5 o'clock. The late starting time is necessary because so many of the players are working during the summer.

KIDS LEAGUE BASEBALL STARTS MONDAY MORNING

Carmel youngsters from ages 12 to 16 who want to play baseball are invited to report at the high school baseball diamond Monday morning for a workout under the direction of Craig Chapman, director of baseball in the summer recreation program. Practice workouts are scheduled daily from 10-12 in the morning and will consist of learning the fundamentals of hitting, throwing, fielding, base-running, sliding, and field mechanics. Participants should have their own glove, but this is not a necessity. Baseball shoes are not required, but players are allowed to use them.

After a few practice sessions, teams will be formed to participate in the Peninsula Recreation League and play a series of games with neighboring communities.

DEL MONTE CRICKET TEAM HOSTS CALIF. CLUB SUNDAY

Carmel's Del Monte Cricket Club returns to Bardarson Field for another league match this Sunday afternoon, meeting the San Francisco California Club at 1 o'clock. This will be the first match between these two teams this season and the outcome appears to be about a toss-up.

Still smarting from an 86-39 thumping at the hands of the Marin Club in last Sunday's Price Cup first round match, the local cricketers are anxious to get back on the victory trail which they travelled so gaily during the first four matches. The Marin Club put together a steady defense and a potent offense to defeat Del Monte by 8 wickets last Sunday.

SWIM CLASSES AT HIGH SCHOOL POOL START MON.

Classes for all types of swimmers are scheduled to start at the high school pool Monday morning. These classes are under the direction of the Carmel Unified School District Recreation Department and lead to Red Cross certificates for beginners, intermediates, junior life-savers, and senior life-savers. There is no charge for participating in this program which is open to Carmel, Carmel Valley, and Highlands residents.

Starting at 9 a.m., the classes will continue until noon. Participants should report to the pool

PINE CONE BLANKS SOLEDAD ON MORTON'S NO-HITTER

A brilliant pitching exhibition by Jim Morton and flawless fielding support by his teammates enabled the Pine Cone softball team to register a 5-0 victory over the colorful Soledad Rebels last Saturday night at Sunset Field. Big Jim was never better, exhibiting near-perfect control and pitching to spots to completely baffle the Rebel swingers. In racking up the no-hit, no-run performance, Morton struck out nine, granted three walks, and allowed only two Soledad players to reach second base.

Marty Johnson, printer third-sacker, was the leading hitter for the winners, lashing out a double and single to drive in three runs. Walt Frey, usually a banjo-hitter in the Pine Cone lineup, hit one of the longest balls ever seen at Sunset Field as he deposited a Gallardo curve high atop the Sunset School building. With the exception of Don Canham, who was blanked at plate, the entire Pine Cone lineup hit safely against the Soledad pitching. Even manager Joe Nicholson got into the act, hitting one for three and fielding his rightfield position like a nimble rookie.

Umpires: Kyrk Reid & George Mosolf.

do outside work as much as I do if my husband didn't cooperate with me. He has his own work but he has given enough extra time to the GOC to get his wings."

It is Mrs. Heldt's job to assign the watchers to a definite two-hour period a week. When something happens to prevent them from serving—as it often does—she has to scurry around and find someone to fill in. And it isn't always easy. Her telephone rings day and night and there are constant changes. She keeps accounts of the receipts and expenditures of the Post. She organizes a meeting of the watchers once a month—says it is a morale booster—and they have discussions on methods to make their Corps more effective in emergencies and they have a guest speaker. This month it was Mr. Fred Kane, manager of the Monterey airport. Mrs. Heldt designed a uniform for her crew. It consists of skirt or slacks, Eisenhower jacket and a regular Air Force cap with the Post's insignia. Colors are airforce blue and white. She also designed, bought the material and made a flag for the Post. It is four by six and on it are the words United States Air Force of Air Defense Command, on dark blue satin, with silver letters. In the center is a front view of a plane, its nose being lettered, Monterey Peninsula GOC Post, and the wings extend almost the entire width of the flag. When Mrs. Heldt wishes to consult with anyone she goes to Master Sergeant Guthrie in Salinas who serves as Military Advisory Aid for three counties.

Once a month Margaret gets out a mimeographed paper called Spotter's Review and sends a copy to each watcher. It is sparkling and informative and helps to keep a close-knit organization. Meetings are announced in its columns, birthdays are noted, statistics of the Post are given. Last month there were 102 members, 260 planes reported and 458 hours covered. There is also a request for answers to a questionnaire to be used for publicity material and there is mention of the individual who has served the largest num-

The following poem was written by a Highlands resident during World War II when the Ground Observer Corps was sky-watching at Yankee Point.

To the American Soldier
That very sun, fast slipping from our sight
Lights up your path on every far-off shore.
Those very stars, fast mounting in the east
Will shine upon our lost Corregidor.
All round the world you stand.
And we stand, too,
Guarding the well-loved shores
for which you die
From strange new portents of the two-fold blue,— Peril from sea, swift peril from the sky.
We will keep watch with you
till Freedom's morn.
This is the fight for which our land was born.
—Eliza Clevenger

ber of duty hours during the past month. The paper also contains a drawing and description of some one plane—this month the Corsair. The social side is not neglected. I read that a pot-luck dinner will be held July 20. The eats will consist of coffee, bread and butter, pickles, olives and dessert, "all of which will be purchased with the money in our refreshment fund." Each observer is asked to bring one hot dish or a salad. And a special thank-you goes to some member who placed five dollars in the hat when it was passed last week.

How about the various Carmel organizations sending along a couple of bucks each to the refreshment fund? Most of us can do at least that much. Surely we can supply them with their pickles and olives. I suggest that you leave your donations with the Pine Cone.

The feature article in each issue of this remarkable little paper is entitled The Observer Of The Month. The honored one in this number is Mrs. Perry Newberry who became a member of the corps in 1953. That same month she completed her 36 hours of watching and received her Wings. One year later she was presented with the GOC service badge and a 250-hour bar by Colonel Kingham, State GOC coordinator and in 1955 GOC Squadron Commander Major Gaston presented her 500-hour bar. As of now Mrs. Newberry has served the greatest number of hours of active duty-shifts at the Post. By the way, they are going to hold open house on July 14 at the Post from 12 noon to 4:00 o'clock. The public is invited.

The mechanics of the work—how it functions—are shown pictorially on a chart. It starts where the sky-watchers trigger the entire operation of national defense by logging and reporting low-flying airplanes to the filter center at Oakland. Is it a single, two or a multi-motor? And in what direction and altitude is it flying? That information next passes to the Air Defense Direction Center, then to the Fighter airfields and on to the Air Defense Control Centers of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Civil Aeronautics and Federal Communications. The message then branches out in several directions—the military establishments, Conelrad radio stations and the key point attack warning centers which in turn flash to sub-key points. Then cities are alerted with their schools, industry, public officials and the sirens give public warning. Sounds complicated but when you look at the diagram on the chart it's perfectly simple. Through following this procedure the greatest amount of people can be warned in the shortest possible time.

By this time, do you feel an urge to join the GOCs? It's easy. Just call Mrs. Heldt at 5-4392 and register over the phone. You then attend two class sessions of two hours each in which you learn the rules and regulations of the Post and how to log and report the planes. You report for duty at the Monterey Wharf, No. 2 in Monterey. You are now a full-fledged observer and when you have watched for 36 hours you can proudly wear your Wings. It must be pleasant in these hectic times to spend a couple of hours a week living with the stars.

Last year Mrs. Heldt got an idea. Everything seems to have a week for special attention. There is clean-up week, ham radio week, a cat-and-dog week and a week each for various diseases. Why not a week for the GOCs? With her to get an idea is to do something about it. She wrote to Governor Knight and he responded by proclaiming a week in honor of the GOC. Margaret prizes the citation she received from the Governor. She says: "California Seal and everything." Col. Kingham, State Coordinator of GOC made a special trip down here from Sacramento to say a thank-you to Post Supervisor Heldt. Then the Air Force took over and presented the Governor with his Wings. Margaret hopes that the Governor will again issue the proclamation in 1955.

We finished the interview with a rather formal question and answer exercise. It follows:

Question: Are there any officers beside you at the Post?

Answer: There is a Chief Observer and two Assistant Chiefs.

Q: Have you all the people you need in your corps?

A: No. I need enough for a two-hour watch around the clock. I now have 102. I need 182.

Q: What ages are represented?

A: 18 to 81.

Q: Who are your immediate superiors?

A: We take orders from the Air Force.

Q: How many hours a week do you ask the members to serve?

A: Two hours. Those who are on night shifts serve six hours, but that counts for a month.

Q: Do you have any refreshments at night?

A: Coffee. We have an electric plate and keep the pot a-perking.

Q: What is the difference between the WAF and you of the GOC?

A: They enlist for a period of time and get some service pay. We are purely volunteer—retain civilian status—neither get nor expect remuneration and can quit at any time.

Q: What expense do you incur for the government?

A: Not a nickel. With the exception of the telephone bill. We have created our own fund that supplies us with paper, envelopes, carbons, stamps and refreshments. We pay our own rent for a hall when we have social gatherings.

Q: Don't you get donations from anyone?

A: Yes. Monterey Council gave us a hundred dollars last year. And Pacific Grove contributed fifty dollars. Our expenses were $488.35. The observers make up the difference. I traveled nearly 5000 miles last year at my own expense.

Q: Hasn't Carmel contributed anything?

A: No. And neither has Seaside.

Q: Do you use binoculars?

A: Sometimes. But the observers have pretty keen eyes and ears. They usually can tell the make and model of the plane just by listening to it. Some can detect it even over the sound of a passing train.

Q: What do you most want?

A: I want more volunteers so I can have watchers the full 24 hours of every day.

I was curious about Margaret's ancestry. She told me that both of her parents were Danish. Her father as a young man had suffered when the Germans under the old Kaiser overran his little country. The people were persecuted and punished for very minor offenses such as planting a garden of red and white flowers to honor their own Danish flag. When it came time for his conscription in the German Army he emigrated to America. Here he married Margretha Tobiasen who was also a Dane. They came to California, became farmers in the Fresno region. In 1950 the mother made a plane trip back to Denmark to find out what had happened to her family during the war. Upon her return she said to Margaret: "Never forget that you are an American. I never fully realized it before but now I know it."

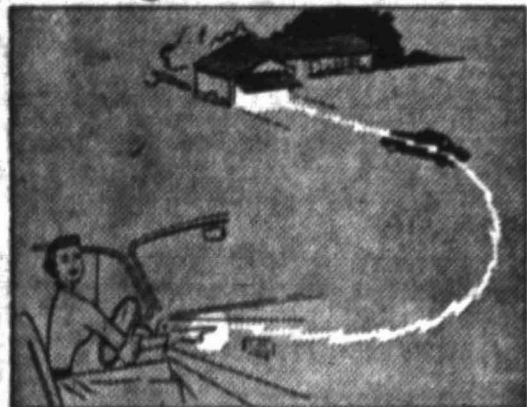

As for Margaret Heldt, she says she has great pride in two things—that she is a Native Daughter of the Golden West and that she has Danish ancestry.

He gathered that for them to move back to the mainland would be like "their going from Pebble Beach to Third and Howard streets in San Francisco."

He longs for Carmel and fog.

H. Baumgarten

The death of Henry Baumgarten, father of Mrs. Noel T. Arnold of Pebble Beach, occurred on Friday at the home of his daughter. Mr. Baumgarten had come to stay with the Arnolds last September, and had been in failing health for some time.

He was 88 years old and a native of New Athens, Illinois, where he was born on January 1, 1867, the son of John and Amelia Roebeling Baumgarten. He was married in 1892 to Margaret Medere whose death took place in Pasadena in 1954. The Baumgartens had made their home in Pasadena since 1939 when Mr. Baumgarten retired from business in Illinois.

Survivors in addition to Mrs. Arnold are two sons, Colonel H. Baumgarten and Paul G. Baumgarten of Belleville, Illinois; two daughters, Miss Ida Baumgarten of Pasadena and Miss Margaret Baumgarten of Sun Valley, Idaho. There are three grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in the Lamb Mortuary in Pasadena on Monday afternoon and burial took place in the family plot at Mountain View Cemetery.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

WATER, WATER!

Two very interesting documents relating to the conservation, or wise use of water have come to my desk during the last week. About the same time came news that the California State Legislature and the Governor have figuratively thrown up their hands in efforts to come to some kind of an understanding as to procedure in dealing with California's very serious water problems. All this emphasizes the fact that people are beginning to think hard about water, our supply of which has been taken very largely for granted until recently, but that there is still a notable lack of unanimity in approaching the subject.

The first of the two documents that I have received is a 16-page pamphlet entitled A Water Use Policy. This is prepared and sponsored by the Outdoor Writers Association of America, 7 St. Paul St., Baltimore. It bears the subtitle Proposed for Action by the U. S. Congress. I happen to be a member of this Association and know that it includes several thousand writers and conservationists who are approaching the problem as objectively and disinterestedly as any group in the United States.

The suggested Policy is the result of long study by a committee under the able chairmanship of Arthur H. Carhart of Denver, one of the nation's leading writers on conservation topics and author of the popular book, Water—or Your Life. It consists of 26 "precepts" which the committee believes to be fundamental in shaping a national water policy. To discuss each one would necessitate a long magazine article. Within the limits of this column I can only say that they are very carefully and thoroughly worked out and that I hope they will come to the attention of all legislators everywhere who are struggling with these problems.

The second water problem that has landed on my desk is a notice of a hearing to be conducted by the Federal Power Commission in Captain James M. Sherwood, U.S.M.C., son of Colonel and Mrs. J. W. Sherwood of Hatton Fields, graduated this month from the Junior Amphibious Warfare School in Quantico, Virginia. During his service in Korea, with a tank company, Captain Sherwood was decorated by the army with a bronze star, and by the navy, with a bronze star with V for valor. He is a member of the Class of '45 at Annapolis and is the father of two daughters, Suzanne and Frederica, who with their mother are at present visiting in Schenectady, New York, with Admiral and Mrs. Kitts, parents of Mrs. Sherwood.

Eugene, Oregon, on June 27 to determine whether a permit shall be given to the Eugene Water and Electric Board to construct dams on the Upper McKenzie River in Oregon. This is entirely a question of priority in values. The McKenzie River is famous scenically and as a fishing stream. Boat trips down the river are one of the greatest thrills for any vacationist.

The out-of-door conservationists of the country are unanimously opposed to granting this permit. They are calling attention to a recent decision of the Federal Power Commission denying a permit to a Wisconsin power company to build a dam on the Namekagon River in that state on the ground that its recreational advantages are more important than its power potentialities. This decision was appealed by the power company but its appeal was lost when the U. S. Court of Appeals for the 7th Circuit ruled that the Federal Power Commission was justified in making the decision.

The Namekagon case is a milestone in the history of efforts to save some of our more beautiful rivers for scenic and recreational purposes. It is our hope that the precedent will also save the Upper McKenzie River.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

No matter whether we are sick or well, most of us like to talk about food, eat good food, and plan meals for everyday or party serving. To do any or all of these things well, most of us need a reliable cookbook. In the past three months, several new cookbooks have been added to our collection, and more will follow. Some of these titles need a word of explanation, while others are self-explanatory.

Kaufman's Cooking with the Experts contains 400 simple recipes selected by television's best cooks. Kiene's Electric Fryer-Cooker Recipes gives us 250 easy, economical, and digestible recipes for cooking everything from soup to nuts. It is not necessary to fry foods cooked in an electric fryer. Fryers are ideal for the long, slow cooking of soups and stews. Pattison's North American Cookbook is a large, general cookbook. Taglienti's Italian Cookbook is composed entirely of recipes beloved by good Italian cooks. Tracy's Peasant Cookbook has recipes gathered all over the world from the sturdy peasant cooks of all nations.

On a kindred subject is John Melville's Guide to California Wines, which was started in circulation this week. This is a fascinating discussion of our own native wines. We have ordered General Frank Dorn's Cookbook and it should be here soon. And finally, we have just received Better Homes and Garden's Diet Book. Not that any of us need to diet, but this listing covers a great deal of fattening food, and a diet book might be necessary later on.

When seeking a cookbook in our library, look in the card catalog under Cookery. That is the correct heading, and is just another way librarians use to make it hard for a patron to find what he is looking for!

CATHOLICS DIG DEEP IN SALINAS

Starting June 5, volunteer workers for the Sacred Heart Fund in Salinas had collected $461,982 by last Friday. The money is needed to pay off the debt incurred through the building of Palma Catholic High School.

Included in this total were three gifts of $20,000 each, three gifts of $16,000 each, five gifts of $10,000, one of $7,000 and ten of $5,000 each. There are innumerable other donations ranging from $1,000 to $5,000 besides many other smaller gifts, the Very Reverend Monsignor Thomas J. Earley, Pastor, reported.

Ruth Cooke's Exhibit

By MARJORY LLOYD

Emotion creates moods, and that moods may be expressed through the medium of color and design is most ably demonstrated by Ruth Hill Cooke in the one-man show of some twenty of her pictures now hanging in the Gallery and Craft Center on Olivier Street in Monterey, the former Wall Gallery.

Mrs. Cooke has not confined herself to any one medium of expression. She uses oil paint, charcoal, gouache, water color and crayon as the mood demands, and, that she commands the mood, speaks for the discipline of her mind in creative work. Yet the discipline never restricts the expression of her emotions in her work, but regulates each painting so that the result in each instance is an harmonious composition both in color and design.

The pictures cover a span of some years and can be divided into the pre-Paris and post-Paris periods, starting with three expressive charcoal studies of Carmel Valley Oaks. Two of these are trees alone, and the third is a composition of the hills with a large central oak called Tularcitos Hills. Here she shows her understanding of the use of a soft black and white medium to create the strength and poetry inherent in the hillside trees.

In sharp contrast to this group are the gouache studies done at about the same period. Here, as in Decoration, a flower study, brilliant, clear color is boldly used in a bold design of great strength, and the result is a truly startling decoration. Mention should also be made of the delightful painting of the Church of the Wayfarer, where Mrs. Cooke has chosen to portray the effectiveness of the entrance design by painting it at night in the full reflected light of a street lamp. Here she makes the viewer see a haven which offers peace amid turmoil.

Moving to the post-Paris period, one is amazed how the same quality, control of emotional mood, is expressed in different manners under different influences. Ruth Cooke spent eight months in Paris studying with Andre L'Hote, six days a week, and the results are seen in a new form of design in planes and blocks of color.

Now she moves from sheer humor in the colorful painting of Penelope with the Lute, to piety, in Paris Night, a study of Notre Dame painted in a reflected glow against a dark sky. An interesting comparison may be drawn here to the already mentioned Wayfarer study, the same mood is present but the interpretation is most diverse. The Carmel church study is solid and contemporary, but the Paris painting creates an almost ghostlike feeling of Christianity existing through centuries.

The hanging of the pictures in the show is excellent and one catches at a glance the significance of each group of paintings, such as the figure studies to the right of the entrance. These were all done after the Paris interlude and interpret the human figure in various moods. Outstanding is Rhythm, a somewhat stylized handling, in well-defined color blocks flowing ever in an almost concentric manner from the central core of the picture to the outside, and subtly brought to the center again. Also in this group is Paris Study in which Ruth Cooke again shows her command of charcoal in a strong portrayal of the female form. Nude, in this group departs from the clearly defined block treatment although showing its influence, and is interesting in that it uses one color predominantly and the composition is rhythmic and gentle, subdued but powerful.

The crayon pictures are the delight of the show in one respect. Here is fantasy, light, whimsical but still controlled. Delicately executed, charm predominates in each picture. One is torn between the detailed view of Montignac, expressing the almost fairy-tale quality of the

*Blind! and yet the moon with opal fingers
Now touches golden fish in a terrace pool,
And, gently sounding every scale,
She plays a bright polyphony
Interpreting this tiny swimming Braille.*

*Deaf! and yet the sun with amber fingers
Caresses melody from a lolling swan;
For an opalescent water theme
Portrays the mystic cadences
That wings, through mirror play of sun, redeem.*

*Mute! I see the blind interpret nature;
Mute! I know the deaf's reflected song.
Life speaks without a tongue, of sense that lingers
In light beyond all senses—long . . . how long.*

ABSENCE

*In the voice of the wild heron calling
I hear. . . .*

*The whispering winds are his messengers,
Dogwoods shower whiteness upon me,
The heart of a rose unfolds in sun,
And a bird's wings vanish where I may not follow.*

*Absent, he is become
The empty space in the line of summer hills,
That the moon will fill with her soft lamp,
Luminous over all the dark valley below.*

*In the gleam of a sudden firefly light
I know. . . .*

—MARGARET APPLETON

A VACANT LOT

*A vacant lot
Is never that to me
If, in a sunny corner, lilac bushes toss their plumes,
And, between stepping stones, sweet alyssum blooms,
In fragrant eulogy
Of one who loved the spot.*

*Though wild oats shimmer where
The hearthstone lay, the place
Is poignant with the grace
Of living planted there.*

*A lot is vacant though
An empty house still stands;
An echo of the folks who sheltered there to go and come
And never paused to plant a vine or tried to make a home,
Leaving no record wrought by gentle hands
To show that it was cherished, long ago.*

Two Southern Shows

By E. CASHION MAC LENNAN

Carmel Painter E. Cashion Mac Lennan is a frequent exhibitor in Los Angeles Art Association annuals. She here gives her impression of two noteworthy exhibitions in the South.

Two rewarding exhibitions are now on view in Los Angeles: one at the Los Angeles County Museum, by artists of Los Angeles County and vicinity; the other, recent water colors by Millard Sheets at the Dalzell-Hatfield Galleries in the Ambassador Hotel.

In the larger exhibition there are more non-objective works than formerly, and color at times is used in its own right (without defined form or line). The exhibition has an over-all daring and breadth of approach. The names of many former well known artists, outstanding in the more representational group, are missing.

Realism seems inadequate to express the tensions of the present era, and the abstract and non-objective manner evidently better suit the temper of this present day world. Color and form are increasingly freed from visual description. The few representational canvases and water colors in the show offer a satisfying and eye-testing contrast to the more insistent, aggressive works.

The late Donald Bear once stated "Vitality and quality are about the only rules of measurement for most contemporary art work. "It is important also," he often repeated, "that paintings should express some sentiment, but not sentimentality." And of course all creative work must be judged from the standpoint of the artist; "what is his intention." I kept these precepts in mind as I studied this varied exhibition.

A small boy, near me in the gallery, standing before a sensational arrangement in violent color, ejaculated aloud, unconsciously, "Holy mackerel!" And I thought several "holy mackerels!" as I progressed through the galleries, trying to understand what each artist had in mind; and yet my final sense of the exhibition was, that here was much thoughtful and sincere painting.

The prizes were generous ($4,000.00 being distributed to the winners), though I thought not always given to the most noteworthy paintings. But no hard-working jury anywhere ever pleases everyone.

Top prize in oils went to The New Poster by Albert Nalpas, a smallish canvas, representational in character. Second, The Window, rich in color, by Taro Jashima. Third, Wind Binder by Channing Peake. Fourth, The Plasterers by Edward Biberman. The fifth, $200.00 each, to Connor Everts, Francis Erdely, Francis Kelly, Marion Pike, and Robert Clark. First prize in sculpture went to Renzo Fenci of Santa Barbara for a thoughtful, introspective head in bronze.

The oils which pleased me most were Men of the Sea, harmonious and well composed, by Richard Haines; Green Hills by John Leeper; Tropical City, vigorous and colorful by Robert Frame; Standing Women by Paul Julian; Patterns by Lee Mazzotti; Granite Boulder by Frederick Beecher; Angels Flight, gay and vibrating, by K. Antoyan; and Bouquet of People by Mabel Alvarez. Several small portraits were outstanding, in my opinion, especially those by Mrs. Modlin, Mildred Bard, and Sueo Surisawa.

For most of the oils and water colors masonite prevailed as the foundation material, and many of the water colors were done in casein. Almost non-existent were the large freely handled papers of wet washes and bold treatment so numerous in past exhibitions. The water colorists in this exhibition lean towards depicting small intricate painstaking patterns, some with added collage.

fresh, and wet. Driftwood, a fine composition by Tyrus Wong won an award; as did also Fight of Two Arrogants, a colorful contest between a macaw and a rooster, and Up From the Ooze by Jan Stussy.

Other outstanding water colors were Birds in the Night, three pelicans on a limb in the moonlight. (Unfortunately I did not get the name of the artist); River Queen by Clem Hall, which reminded me forcefully of some trips I had taken on the Mississippi River packets; Old Los Angeles, a beautiful color harmony in the opaque medium by Irma Attridge, and Engine No. 2, a fine wet water color, by Alan Wood.

"Millard Sheets proves himself worthy of a place among the masters of American water color painting," wrote Malcolm Vaughan some years ago in connection with one of Sheet's exhibitions, and the present one in the Dalzell-Hatfield Galleries measures up fully to that standard. In the elusive medium

New Play Opens On Big Stage At The Golden Bough

My Sister Eileen, exuberant comedy of Greenwich Village, will be performed on the main stage of Golden Bough Playhouse three nights next week, beginning Tuesday. The play is under the direction of David Sacks, of Special Services, Fort Ord, whose Front Page and Golden Boy productions at Ord reached a high standard. For the Golden Bough he has assembled an experienced cast, drawing from Carmel, Monterey, Fort Ord, the Army Language School and the Peninsula generally. Connie Chedester will play the title role, and the older sister will be enacted by Miriam Alexander. Appolous, the Greek landlord of the girls' cluttered basement apartment in the Village, will be played by George Lowry.

My Sister Eileen is an engaging, hearty comedy, with a record of a long run on Broadway, extensive road tours and subsequently many successful non-professional productions. The play was also a huge success as a motion picture.

The play's story covers the 12 months' tenancy of a Greenwich Village basement by two sisters, and the amazing adventures that befell them, including one that just fell short of creating an international incident. The play is regarded as one of the best American comedies of recent years.

of water color Sheets has explored its broadest possibilities, from pure transparent washes to a solidity approximating oil without resorting to the opaque gouache or tempera.

The paintings in the current exhibition include subject matter from Hawaii, Mexico and America; and whatever figures or landscape he is depicting, a sure feeling for composition, design, color, and technique is ever present, plus the qualities of inventiveness and imagination.

His Hawaiian Afternoon, a portrait composition of two young girls, is his largest and most impressive work in the show. In addition, there are numerous interesting smaller figure-groups, decorative in arrangement, including several Hawaiian scenes portrayed in brilliant color and with exquisite pattern; a stunning marine in his well-known wet wash style; two interpretations of the Mission St. Xavier (Tucson), each in its different mood. But most fascinating to me were two decorative landscapes; Brule River, Minnesota (a white heron being the center of interest with tree and water background) and Moon Herd, a rare design of horses augmented by colorful plant designs. Millard Sheets knows his horses since he breeds fine California stock at his ranch near Claremont, California.

Ruth Cooke's Show

area, and Entreacte, the study of a dancer. This is a new medium for Mrs. Cooke and one which she should explore continually. That she has done so since her return from Europe, is demonstrated in her crayon landscapes of the Mother Lode country included in the show.

That gouache is a favorite medium of this painter, is seen throughout the show, and the small European scenes displayed are almost as delightful as the crayon works. They create a calmer mood, however, less whimsical, but greatly convey the sheer beauty of the scenes Mrs. Cooke has chosen to portray. The quietude of the Seine is completely expressed in the picture of this river and the same peacefulness is seen in St. Julien Le Pauvre and Village in the Pyrenees.

Taken as a whole the show amazes one by the versatility displayed by the painter, versatility of medium, mood and design and the fact that, always, is the emotional control evident, there are no shocks present, except in Decoration, and that merely serves to point up the fact that violence of color may be controlled by design. The show will remain on display until Sunday.

Prayer of Peace

ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI • 1182-1226

LORD, make me an instrument of Thy peace.
Where there is hatred, let me sow love.
Where there is injury, pardon.
Where there is doubt, faith.
Where there is despair, hope.
Where there is darkness, light.
Where there is sadness, joy.

O DIVINE MASTER, grant that I may not so much seek
To be consoled, as to console;
To be understood, as to understand;
To be loved, as to love;
For it is in giving, that we receive.
It is in pardoning, that we are pardoned.
It is in dying, that we are born to eternal life.

Windjammer Trip for Carmelites

When the Dutch topsail schooner, under the skippering of Ernest Gann of Pebble Beach, sets sail across the Atlantic in August, two Carmel men will be aboard as crew. They are Jack Geisen and George Yates. Steven Gann, son of the author-skipper, and an eighth-grader at Sunset School, will also make the trip with his father. Richard Catlin of Carmel will join the ship in the Caribbean. Gann, who has recently returned from Holland, bought the vessel for the company which is filming his story, Twilight of the Gods, and the ship will be used in the production. She began her career as a Dutch pilot ship in the North Sea. Gann will start his voyage in Rotterdam and spend about a month crossing to the Caribbean and another month going through the Panama Canal to San Francisco. He promises to bring her into Stillwater Cove for a day on the way north if the weather is favorable and hopes to take her into Antigua in the British West Indies. Admiral Nelson's Caribbean base.

Donna Wins Honors

Mrs. Eula Douglas, Barbara Balzer, Mrs. Eric Andersen, her daughter, Elvira, and Andrew Gray were all present to applaud Donna Douglas when she graduated from San Jose State College last Sunday, and they were delighted to find that she had graduated, not only with distinction, but with departmental honors in recreation. Mrs. Douglas' other daughter, Beverly, who is married to Captain Lawrence Reiche, has just arrived in Stuttgart, Germany. She and her husband and two children, are looking for a place in which to live during the two years that Captain Reiche expects to be stationed in Europe. Just previous to their departure, Mrs. Douglas flew to Baltimore for a farewell visit with them.

Seventh Child for Gardners

It's five boys and two girls for the Louis Gardners of the Blue Sky Lodge in Carmel Valley since June 11, when John Louis was born at the Monterey Hospital. He has a great-grandmother, Mrs. William Adams, and a grandmother, Mrs. Marie Burns, both of Carmel Valley. His two sisters are Linda and Sandra, and his brothers are Lee, Richard, Roger and Alan.

Carole Byers' Wedding

Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, Carole Elise Byers became the bride of Francis Michael Farrell in All Saints' Church, with the rector, the Reverend Angus Dun, Jr., officiating. Standards of white stock decorated the altar which was lighted by white tapers placed in candelabra. Just before the wedding John Forbes sang, O Perfect Love, and during the ceremony, The Lord's Prayer.

Carole, given in marriage by her cousin, Kenneth McCarty of Sherman Oaks, wore a blush pink nylon net gown. The fitted bodice extended to just below the waist and was fastened in back with a row of tiny buttons. The round neckline was outlined with a yoke of pearls and net gauntlets fastened with pearls covered her arms and met the full puffed sleeves of the bodice. The long bouffant skirt was made with tier upon tier of small ruffles, each tier a little fuller than the one above, extending into a sweeping train in back. Carole's fingertip veil of the same net was held in place by a coronet of pearls and her bouquet was of pink Cecile Brunner roses, white stephanotis and lilies of the valley arranged in small sprays.

The pink color note of the wedding was carried out in the dresses of the attendants. Mrs. Erik Short, as matron of honor, wore a slightly deeper shade of pink than the two bridesmaids, Pat Chedester and Edith Rigdon. The gowns were all made alike with fitted surplice style bodices, the yokes of which extended into narrow sleeves at the shoulder line. The full skirts fell from the waistline in tiny unpressed pleats. Narrow pink satin bandeaus trimmed with a row of pearls were worn in their hair. They carried bouquets of pink carnations and their satin slippers matched their dresses.

Best man for his brother was John Farrell, and the ushers were Erik Short, Bill Hodgson and Skipper Lloyd.

Mrs. Laud Stanley Byers attended her daughter's wedding in a woodland violet ribbon dress accented with pink chiffon at the neckline. Her matching hat was made of tiny velvet violets and her pink shoes repeated the pink touch at the neck of the dress. Her corsage was of Cecile Brunner roses.

Mrs. Frank Farrell, mother of the groom, was dressed in navy blue taffeta with a matching coat and a white straw hat. White carnations were the flowers in her corsage.

The reception was held at the Byers' home in Jack's Peak where the wedding party received the guests in the entrance hall, standing between two large standards of white stock arranged in tall baskets, and then moved to the reception room where the two wedding cakes, made by Miss Manda Moerer, and decorated with small pink rosebuds were placed on a table at one end of the room and were served to the guests by Mrs. Grace Blake of Hollywood. Serving punch from another long table at the side of the room was Miss Manda Moerer, who was assisted by Miss Lucia Halleck, Miss Patricia Voss, Miss Adah Moerer of Tujunga, Miss Freda Gerfin and Mrs. Carl Daniels.

Mike and Carole are spending a honeymoon in northern California at Pinecrest, and when they left Carole donned a coral colored, raw silk dress with a matching hat, an oatmeal colored coat and black patent leather shoes and bag. Upon their return they will make their home on the Monterey Peninsula for the next few months until they decide whether to continue their education at the University of California or in Europe.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. George Keeney and Dorinda of La Crescenta, James, Kathleen, Mary Margaret and Mrs. Kenneth McCarty of Sherman Oaks, Miss Eleanora Moerer of Inglewood and Arnold and Reta Gerfin of Yucaipa. Roger Byers, who is in the East on business was unable to be present at his sister's marriage, but telephoned his good wishes during the reception.

Ron Stoney at Fort Sill

Ron Stoney, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Stoney of Carmel Valley, received his bachelor of science degree at the June 11 convocation at the University of Santa Clara. Next year he will enter the University of California Medical School. At present he is at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, for six weeks, completing his R.O.T.C. training, and, in August, at the end of his service, will receive a commission as lieutenant.

Russell Williams Family Camps

Long Ridge, above Bixby Creek, is where Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams and their family are spending their annual two weeks camping period. This year they deserted the floor of Rocky Creek for the high country, and, with Richard Lofton, are busy building the foundations of a cabin, which they plan to have for a year round retreat. Mrs. Lofton, in the meantime, is in Berkeley at the University of California studying for her teacher's credentials.

Guest for the Silvas

This week Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Silva have been showing the Monterey Peninsula to Miss Flora McLaughlin of Everett, Washington. The latter is dietician at the Everett General Hospital, and is a longtime friend of Mrs. Silva's, as they attended the University of Montana together, and then renewed friendship when the Silvas were residents of Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss McLaughlin was the dietician at St. Luke's Hospital in that city.

Scott Howard Sumner Arrives

Patricia and Dick Sumner (Pat Timbers) are the parents of a husky son since last Saturday. He was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital and weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces. They have named the young man, Scott Howard, the last name for his grandfather, Howard Timbers of Carmel. His grandmother is Mrs. Timbers and Carol Timbers is his aunt. Pat and Dick are spending the summer in Carmel where they have taken an apartment, but, in the fall, expect to leave for Davis where Dick will continue his work towards a degree in veterinary medicine. Pat plans to continue her nursing career. During the past year she has been a pediatric nurse at the Monterey County Hospital while Dick was studying at Hartnell College.

Katie Schleppe in Japan

No word having been received to the contrary, Katie Schleppe must be in Tokyo with her husband, Corporal Wayne Schleppe. Katie left Carmel Friday, and on Saturday boarded a plane in San Francisco for the trip to the Orient. As she had to lose a day on the flight over the International Date Line she expected to arrive in Tokyo on Sunday.

Barbara James Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lewis James of Hollywood and Carmel Highlands are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ellen, to Daniel Willard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Willard of Sacramento.

Barbara has just finished her freshman year at Stanford, and it was there that she met Dan, who was a junior. He has enlisted in the Naval cadet training program, and for the next 18 months will be at Pensacola preparing to be a jet pilot. Barbara and Dan plan to be married as soon as this training period is finished.

Mr. and Mrs. James are at present visiting the former's mother, Mrs. D. L. James, at her Highlands home and they are all planning a family dinner party tomorrow evening in honor of Barbara's engagement. Barbara's other grandmother is Mrs. Otto H. Roes of Los Angeles.

More and Then More Littles

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie G. Little have four grandsons, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Little of Carmel Valley, but they also have four granddaughters, children of Mrs. Marion Hershey of El Paso, Texas, called, Karen, Allison, Debbie and Joan. Then they have three more grandchildren, Billie, Allen and Bonnie Little, children of their son, Norman, and his wife, Mary, of Whiting Field, Florida, and they have all been here with their parents, and Mrs. Little reports "it was a mad time, but fun". The children and grandchildren all barbecued at the Bob Littles' valley ranch, swam in the river, and otherwise amused themselves, while the grown-ups had time to visit, and, it was just as well, perhaps, that Bob and Bernice Little have three acres of ground. Lieutenant and Mrs. Little and their children have left for Florida, and Mrs. Hershey and her daughters are now visiting in Santa Cruz, and the Carmel members of the family are resting and reminiscing.

Chanslors Visit Carmel Friends

Wednesday to Monday were busy, entertaining days for the Carmel friends of Roy and Marjorie Chanslor, who came north from their home in Encino for their annual visit to the Monterey Peninsula. They were entertained by Henry and Mona Williams, the Jack Gilberts, Janie and Herb Vial and the James Hoppers. The Chanslors are old friends of Jimmy Hopper, from back in the days when Roy and Jimmy were newspapermen in New York. Both Roy and Marjorie are writers. The most recent books which Roy has had published have been The Naked I, Johnny Guitar, and Trouble With Paradise. Several of his books have been made into movies, the latest being Johnny Guitar. Marjorie writes under the name of Marjorie Torrey and has many children's books to her credit, which she also illustrates. Her latest published book was Saturday Night Is My Delight, the charming story of an Irish-American family. This fall a new edition of Alice in Wonderland is to be published with Marjorie's illustrations.

Laidlaw Williams Family Leave

On Tuesday, Laidlaw and Abbie Lou Williams of Carmel Highlands and their two children, Alice and Boz, left for a summer at Baddeck on Cape Breton Island in Nova Scotia. Several years ago the Williams bought an old deserted farm in the Canadian community and named it Plaster Head for the gypsum deposits which they found they possessed. Each year they work on restoring the house and the farm, and spend long hours boating and swimming in the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, absorbing, to the full, the Gaelic atmosphere of the community and their neighbors.

Council Buys $65,000 Lots, Doubles Sales Tax

(Continued from Page One) merly the Hotelmen's Association, that the city install parking meters. This was accompanied by a water color showing a parking meter planted in an upended concrete water pipe, the meter lifting its head above some unidentified pink flora.

(2) The Doctors' Petition that time limit parking be established for a block each side of the Nielsen Professional Building, but that doctors be allowed to park as long as they wish.

(3) Alf Nielsen's Petition (active off and on since 1950) for time limit parking on San Carlos Street between Seventh and Eighth, where the "sleepers stay all day."

A lease purchase agreement to buy for $40,000 the Hofsas lot opposite the postoffice, now rented by the city for a parking lot, was on the table last night but held over. The council agreed that the terms are good, the lot is needed and the money is available, but Mrs. Smith and Francis Whitaker think that the business people should share in the cost of parking lot purchases. The other councilmen think the lots should be bought out of general funds, especially since other efforts to finance parking lot purchase have failed.

Mrs. Smith and Whitaker also voted "no" on the sales tax increase. Mrs. Smith maintained that there was still a possibility of the governor failing to sign the uniform sales tax bill, or of the county failing to adopt the tax, and it would be unnecessary for Carmel to raise its sales tax. She especially deplored raising the tax before the council had determined the city's financial needs in the annual budget sessions. Whitaker thought that the council should agree on how it was going to spend the money before it increased the tax. There is plenty of time, he pointed out, since the county can't take action until August.

Chitwood said he was voting for the one cent tax "not to get on the unified sales tax bandwagon, but because we need the money."

During the public hearing on the tax, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Harms asked how the council intended to spend the increase revenue.

Mayor Horace Lyon said that he would do his utmost to see that it was spent for land purchase. Chitwood said the police and street departments are antiquated; the city hall needs renovating; and that Carmel needs parking lots and a jail.

Miss Marian Petray and James Campbell also questioned the council, and Conlan and Carl Bosholm spoke in support of increasing the sales tax immediately.

The tax becomes effective July 1.

... Churches ...CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How spiritual understanding of the law of God opens the door to individual growth and progress will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christian Science" include the following from Psalms (19): "The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple."

The value of understanding this law will also be brought out in passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following (128:4-6, 15): "The term Science, properly understood, refers only to the laws of God and to His government of the universe, inclusive of man. . . . A Knowledge of the Science of being develops the latent abilities and possibilities of man. It extends the atmosphere of thought, giving mortals access to broader and higher realms. It raises the thinker into his native air of insight and perspicacity."

made by the company to the Council? Apparently none, and no such offer should be considered by the Council as justification for what, in essence, is the giving away of city property.

The citizen of Carmel cannot put his garden clippings on the sidewalk area without a polite reminder from the police that he must move them; the merchant will get the same gentle hint if he displays his merchandise for sale on the sidewalk, but unless the Council regains its sense of balance, 26 fake birdcages will clutter the public way.

And worse, if possible, is yet to come. The Council must have forgotten that the Alarm Corporation's franchise is not an exclusive one like those enjoyed by the water and power utilities. Any time that another television company wants to lay lines or use the public street underground or compete with the present one, it may do so, and the privileges extended to the present company must be extended to its competitor. A sorry prospect!

A majority of the Council, evidently, is under the impression that by thus granting a special privilege it is demonstrating its gratitude for the scarcity of television antennas in Carmel. Gentlemen, gentlemen, the ink has scarcely dried on your own ordinance which, by limiting the height of the aerial, practically eliminated the standard antenna. Television is not brought into town by cable so that Carmel may be spared the unlovely metal forest that flourishes over other residential tracts; the cable is simply the most practical and profitable way of doing it. It will certainly be more profitable if the amplifier boxes are built above ground where problems of maintenance and ventilation are lessened, but it will never be marked up on the credit side of a Council whose first responsibility is to the character and spirit of Carmel.

I remember when the Alarm Corporation first requested its franchise. It asked for boxes above ground then, but it readily acceded to that Council's desire that nothing be erected upon the public way that would be obtrusive, a hazard, or that would detract from the natural charm for which the Councils have become the trustees. It was suggested then that if the Council's terms seemed too strict, that the television company obtain permission to install the boxes on private property with direct access on the property line, but the company hastily shied away from the idea as too involved. The franchise was granted on the Council's terms. The cable and boxes went underground, the Carmel scene was unchanged, the sidewalk area unobstructed, and those who longed for high adventure on the quivering screen got it.

The corporation can, of course, ask at any time for a reconsideration of its franchise, but the Council, in hearing the petition is first bound by its responsibilities as trustee for the peculiar heritage of the people of Carmel, not by considerations of financial betterment for a private business.

The people who believe that there are some sacrifices that cannot be made, some apparently innocuous grants that cannot be handed out because of the underlying principles that would be violated, have one more chance. A council committee consisting of Francis Whitaker, the only councilman in this affair who has kept his feet on the ground, and Geraldine Smith, together with Clarence Bates and Dora Comstock, members of the planning commission, is to inspect and pass upon the appearance and suitability of the above ground boxes.

Also, the council can withdraw its grant of privilege and continue the franchise on its old terms. This would not be a comfortable action to take, but when a mistake has been made, our councilmen are big enough to correct it, and this mistake needs correcting.

William Burke

William Aloysius Burke died in his sleep early Saturday morning. He had had a cerebral hemorrhage a few days earlier but was apparently recovering. For 15 years Burke has been a familiar figure on Dolores Street, where he presided over his hardware store. Loved for his humor and friendliness, he was "Billie" to everybody.

He was born in San Jose on September 1, 1895. When he was still an infant his family moved to Salinas, where he grew up and received his education. He came to the Monterey Peninsula 30 years ago, and for 15 years worked in a Monterey hardware store. Then he moved to Carmel and established his own business on Dolores Street, and lived at Mission and Fourth.

He was a member of Carmel

Mission parish, belonged to the Holy Name Society, the Monterey Council 1465, Knights of Columbus and the Monterey Peninsula Local Assembly of Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus. A veteran of World War I, he was a member of Carmel Post 516 of the American Legion and of the Forty-and-Eight Club.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Frances B. Silveira, and a brother, Mervyn R. Burke, both of Salinas.

Rosary was said on Monday evening at Mission Mortuary followed on Tuesday morning by a Solemn Requiem Mass at the Carmel Mission. Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus served as pallbearers and burial took place in the family plot in Calvary Catholic Cemetery in Salinas.

Friends wishing to make contributions to his memory are asked to do so in the form of donations to the Carmel Mission Restoration Fund or spiritual bouquets.

FIRE CALL

There was a little unexpected excitement at Blum's new restaurant on Wednesday, opening day. In the middle of the luncheon rush the fire department arrived to extinguish a fire in the kitchen, caused by grease on the stove igniting a flue.
